

Need

1. Client approaches to sales team for buying a particular product
2. The sales team approaches to the inventory department to check the availability of the product
[product OUT of stock]
3. Sales team approaches to the production planning department manufacture the product
4. production planning team checks with the inventory department for availability of raw materials.
5. If not available he production pl team buys the raw mats from vendors
6. Then production planning forwards the raw materials to the shop floor execution for actual production.
7. Once ready the shop floor team forwards the goods to the sales team
8. And turn deliver it to the client.
9. The sales team updates the finance department with revenue generated by the sale of the product.
10. The production planning team updates the finance department with payments to be made to different vendors for raw materials.
11. All the departments approach HR for any human related issue